

Award coverage for employees making products from wood

Award coverage depends on what the business makes.

Joinery Award

The Joinery Award covers businesses preparing, decorating and assembling joinery, mainly in timber.

This includes:

Level 5 - Stonemason

- shopfitting components, such as showcases and partitions
- stairs made in a workshop and not on a construction site.

Employees can be classified as Joiners.

Timber Award

The Timber Award covers businesses:

- cabinet making, wood machining any article of furniture, including in-built furniture. This includes kitchen cabinets, bathroom vanities and wardrobes.
- making frames, trusses, doors, windows from wood or timber. This includes roof trusses, wall frames, door frames and window frames.

Employees can be classified as:

- Cabinetmakers
- Carpenter/Joiners.

Building and Construction Award

The Building and Construction Award covers businesses constructing, altering or installing cabinetry in a work environment that is on a construction site. This includes installing kitchen cabinets.

It doesn't cover businesses that do shopfitting.

Employees can be classified as Carpenter/Joiners.

What if an employer could be covered by more than 1 award?

The award that covers the employer is the one that has the most suitable classification for the work their employees do.
