Risk Identification:

Anthony was working on a vehicle in an awkward posture (fitting a central locking device in the boot) when he felt a pain in his neck and vomited.

Risk Assessment:

Working in confined space - During the investigations Anthony's story changed on multiple occasions as to where the injury occurred and how it happened. It appears he was working under the dashboard (drivers side) and then changed to the boot.

Risk Controls:

Further training and supervision - At this point, Jorge will have another discussion with him after I leave as the story kept changing and after 15 minutes of trying to determine how and where this injury occurred I was still unable to ascertain this ther
