

David Berlusconi

From: Glenn Hunter
Sent: Monday, 12 November 2018 11:27 AM
To: David Berlusconi
Subject: RE: please confirm

All good

From: David Berlusconi
Sent: Monday, 12 November 2018 11:24 AM
To: Glenn Hunter
Subject: please confirm

Spoke to Glenn at 11.01 on 12.11.18 who said:

On Sat night around 5.15 pm I was in my office with Chris. There were customers next door with Michael in Renault and we were waiting for Michael to finish up so we could go home. I was sitting down when John walked over and said we are all going home now. I told John we still have customers here and I have no keys to lock up. John replied saying "get your own fucken keys". He left the premises with other staff and didn't wait. At around 5.40 pm Michael from Renault came over and said his customer had left. I drove off and noticed both gates were shut and locked. I rang David Moore (because I saw his car) to see if he was still here. Dave didn't answer his phone so I walked back to the showroom and knocked on the showroom doors to see if anyone was there. David came out and saw me. He then came out and unlocked the gate for me. I didn't call John because he was in a bad mood.

The following morning on Sunday I got here at 9.55 am because we open at 10.00 am. I had to wait until around 10.10 am to be let in because the doors were still locked. At the front with me there was Chris, Donna, Danny and I think Mel as well. My customer who was due to pick up his car was waiting here as well with his wife and son.

I walked the customer in and sat him in my office while his wife and son were in the lounge area. I started doing the paperwork with the father. While in the office I heard Chris who was standing in the hallway say something to John from across the office. I don't remember exactly but it was a smart remark about the day prior. I then John say something yell back across the office something like "get fucked" or "go fuc yourself".

For about 10-15 seconds they yelling at each other across the office back and forth. At that stage I heard more swearing.

In between that 10-15 second period I excusing myself from the customer in my office and went to my door near where Chris was and asked them to stop. It was very embarrassing and they just kept going.

Ali then walked over from Renault and asked them to stop. He was polite and didn't swear or yell. I heard John tell Ali to fuc off or something to that affect. I got up and walked out with the customer as his wife and son would have heard this and I didn't know when it would stop. I showed the customer the vehicle but he knew that I asked him outside because of this.

We came back in and finished the paperwork 10 minutes later. Everything had settled down by then.

Regards.

David Berlusconi
Human Resources Manager

Australian Automotive Group Pty Limited

60 O'Riordan Street Alexandria NSW 2015

P | +61 2 9332 8167 F | +61 2 9360 5375 M | +61 0417 293 398

E | dberlusconi@austautogroup.com.au

